

“Eye on AMC”

U.S. Army Materiel Command

The Army's Premier Provider of Materiel Readiness

Oct. 13, 2006

Pine Bluff completes binary chemical treatment

The Binary Destruction Facility, Pine Bluff Arsenal, Ark. has completed neutralized operations of the binary chemical precursors QL and DF. For the complete story visit www.cma.army.mil/docviewerframe.aspx?docid=003676115.

CCAD achieves AS9100 certification

Corpus Christi Army Depot, Texas, has received ISO 9001:2000 certification for the standard for quality management systems, and has been certified to the AS9100 standard for aerospace industry Original Equipment Manufacturers. The achievement will be recognized by a U.S. Army Aviation and Missile Life Cycle Management Command ceremony Oct. 18. For the complete story visit <http://www.amc.army.mil/amc/pa/releases06/ccad.html>.

ARDEC's eNOVA program recognized by Army

The U.S. Army Armament Research, Development and Engineering Center's, Picatinny Arsenal, N.J., innovative software-system program has been named the best Knowledge Transformation Initiative in the Army for 2006.

The Army Knowledge Awards recognize break-through initiatives that best provide critical knowledge sharing and collaboration solutions for improving situational awareness and organizational decision-making. For the complete story visit <http://www.pica.army.mil/PicatinnyPublic/news/archive/2006/10-11-06.asp>.

Tobyhanna manufacturing practices rated among the best

Tobyhanna Army Depot, Pa., has earned the 2006 Best Manufacturing Practices Excellence Award. Sixty one percent of Tobyhanna's processes were certified as best practices.

The Best Manufacturing Practices Center of Excellence is part of the Navy's Office of Naval Research. The Center works with the University of Maryland and the Department of Commerce to help companies by identifying, researching, and promoting exceptional manufacturing practices, methods and procedures. For the complete story visit <http://www.bmpcoe.org/news/bmpnews/tyad.html>.

Army Field Support Battalion - Hythe deactivates

U.S. Army Field Support Battalion-Hythe recently held a deactivation ceremony. The battalion at Hythe was the only Army facility still operating in the United Kingdom. The closure marked the last of the facility closures the 405th AFSB was to execute during fiscal year 2006. For the complete story visit <http://www.amc.army.mil/amc/pa/longhaul.pdf>.

Did you know...

Civilian deployment AKO forum created

The Civilian Mobilization Branch, Operations Division, Headquarters, Department of the Army G-1, has established a discussion forum on AKO titled Civilian Deployment. This forum provides an outlet for DA, NAF, DoD civilians, contractors and retired civilians to provide comments and feedback on civilian deployments. Topics include healthcare, equipment, deployment processing and pay issues. The forum can be found at <https://www.us.army.mil/suite/page/139421>.

To submit your news for the weekly “Eye on AMC,” e-mail AMCNewsService@HQAMC-EXCHG.ARMY.MIL